Summer's Coming... Are You Prepped for Vacation?

No one needs to tell you how important your home is. It's where you live, where your family is, and keeps you secure. But when you're away you need to keep it secure. The last thing you'll want to do while having fun is worry needlessly. Here's some important safety tips to keep your home in perfect working order while you and your family enjoy your vacation.

Summer Sales Tips

Many buyers look for homes in the summer months. The kids aren't in school, there's more time and longer days make it a good time for buyers to look around. As a seller this may sound great to you, but this means that there is more that needs to be done if you want an edge in the market. Follow these tips to make your home a summer oasis for potential buyers.
